

Headteacher's Welcome

For me, being part of The Radcliffe School means belonging to a unique, diverse and exciting community with its own identity, built from a strong industrial heritage within Milton Keynes. At The Radcliffe we believe that our House system builds on this community ethos to support our young people to develop a sense of pride in who they are and where they have come from. We strive to develop happy, confident and successful individuals who aspire to be the best they can be and want to make a positive difference to people's lives. To achieve this, we understand the partnerships we have with our parents, feeder schools and local employers all play a key role. We aim to enable each of our students to become ready to enter adulthood having gained skills and experiences, valued not only in our local community, but also the wider world.

Our curriculum, experiences and environment enable our young people to achieve positive outcomes and give them the widest possible future opportunities. At The Radcliffe School, we believe that young people need to develop themselves in different memorable ways that sometimes only a school can provide. We strive for our students to experience the feeling of personal achievement and success, and we support our students to achieve that, no matter their starting points, background or personal barriers. High expectations alongside high quality teaching and learning both within and outside of the curriculum are key to fulfilling this aim, in addition to the already established emphasis on the development of positive relationships.

The passionate and committed staff at The Radcliffe bring and share teaching ideas through creative or more tested means and work hard to enable each student to progress in their learning. Alongside our curriculum teams, our pastoral support plays a crucial role in helping each young person to fully engage with every lesson and support the academic and personal progress students make.

Above all else, we at The Radcliffe School value and understand how education can provide the means to achieve our dreams.

Having been part of The Radcliffe community for so long, I am proud to be the Headteacher of such a supportive school with such talented, bright and dynamic students, parents and staff. If you would like to join our community, please see our Admissions and Staff Vacancy pages.
